

Telling your family and your care team what you want and what you think is important.

If asked to be in a research study your decision either to be in the study or not to be in the study is okay!

Your activity is to find the lightning bolts in the picture below. There are 10 lightning bolts in the picture, good luck!

As you are finding the lightning bolts think of what questions you might ask if you were asked to participate in a research study.

After you have found all the lightning bolts share with your chapter leader, a chapter member or family member what questions you might ask if you were asked to participate in the study. This is a “pretend” (make believe) story, but it can help you learn how to share your wishes with your care team.
